As seniors, we are all now looking back on the past four years of high school. People ask us "How was the dance?", Who won the game?", and "How was opening night?" These questions are asked by everybody. Sometimes they're asked by teachers and other times they're asked by family and friends. As we try to answer these questions we realize that the only answer possible is
"YOU HAD TO BE THERE."

Love is in the air!

No matter which way you turn, there is always a sign of love or infatuation. Down every corridor, couples will be found expressing their deepest feelings for one another.

All over the school people are falling head over heels in love with each other. Knights in shining armor are coming to rescue their fair maidens more and more as time goes on. Each couple is happy they were there to meet each other.

Love is everywhere!
XOXOXOXOXOXOX

Bikes, Buses, and Automobiles!

Whether you used your transportation to get to school or to run from it, your vehicle said something about you. The wide variety of head-turning cars found in the student parking lot displayed vintage, character, driving ability and status. Those not fortunate enough to obtain other means of travel, had the "privilege" of riding the bus. Others who JUST HAD TO BE THERE determinedly rode their bikes. No matter what mode of transportation was used, it got you here and then, one hopes, away again.

Help Me..... I've Fallen.....

Invalids

Throughout the school, during any season, you can witness the hobbling, crippling injuries caused by painful play. You had to be there to feel the pain.

These unfortunate accidents inflicted on the damaged persons may dampen their abilities, but not their spirits.

You will be able to spot an assortment of invalids doing their best to make their way down crowded hallways on crutches, with braces, and casts.

If you would journey through the nurses' office, you'd encounter bottomless boxes of band aids and never-ending bottles of aspirin, to accommodate the injured.

Well, as they say
No Pain, No Gain!

Double Trouble

The twins of Mill River, what would life be like without them? As children they often dressed alike and confused people about their identity. That kind of mischief certainly makes life interesting both at school and at home.

Arguments between the two can range from clothes, the phone, or riding shotgun. Although their interests may be the same, their personalities are unique. And even though they may fight and disagree, they will always have one another.

Meet Debbie & Miguel

Exchange Students

After traveling over 5000 miles, crossing an ocean, several continents, and many countries, Miguel Van Leeuwen Garcia finally arrived in frigid Vermont. Though this trip was a return visit, he was still a new person in a strange place, and he missed his family and friends — just a little. But quickly Miguel began to enjoy the mountains, the greens, and the cows.

Now, as a Mill River student, Miguel has come to appreciate some of the differences between faraway Madrid and homey Mill River. There, enrolled with over 1800 students and with 35-38 kids per class, Mill River has proved a nice change. He enjoys playing basketball, snowboarding, and being involved in Stage 40.

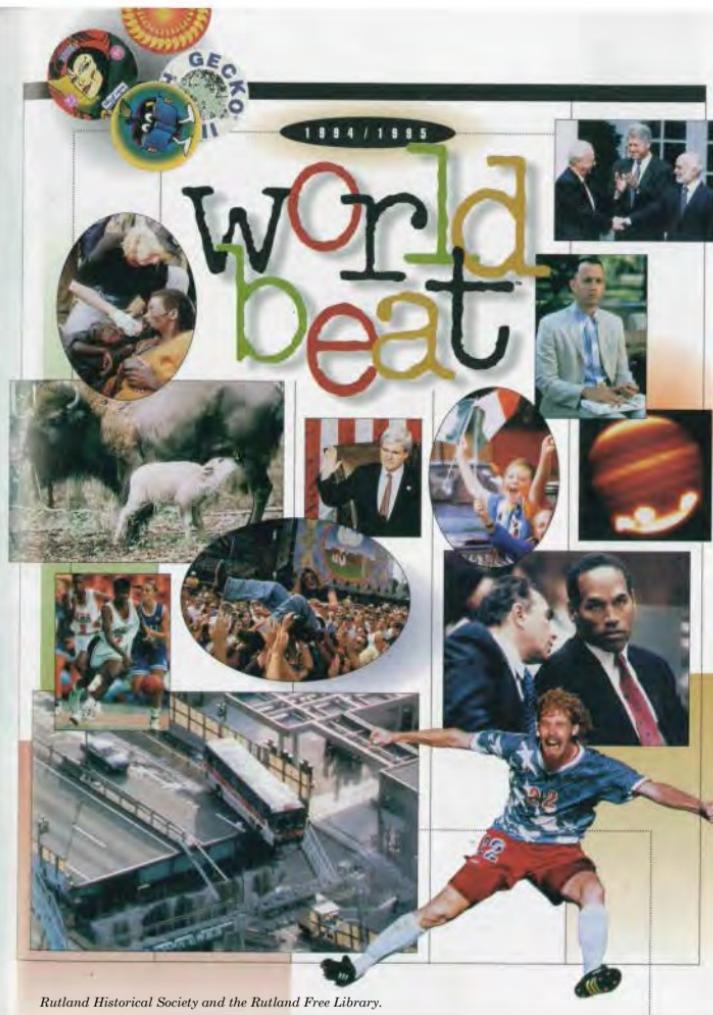

After being so warmly welcomed by his fellow students, teachers, and host family, Miguel will always hold a special place in his heart for the friends he has made here at Mill River.

On her first journey to the United States from her home, Indonesia, Debbie Iswahyudi, was welcomed with much interest and enthusiasm. When she finally reached Vermont, the Green Mountain State, three things came to mind: the cold, maple syrup, and cute cows. Since Debbie is very fond of cows, Vermont quickly found a way into her heart.

Coming from a big city and a big school of over 1200 students, Mill River proved quite a change. In her school back home, uniforms were a must and within the school there was a monkey and snake zoo. In the less exotic environment of Mill River, Debbie is involved with chamber singing and enjoys playing basketball.

As for her future plans, Debbie would like to live in Australia and work for the United Nations. Although she likes her new home here, she still misses her friends and brother.

In celebrating its 20th anniversary, Stage 40 has performed such show stopping productions as "Picnic", "The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe", and the one-acts, "The Measures Taken" and "Puddle Jumpers". "Puddle Jumpers" marked a new step for Stage 40 in presenting a play authored by Mill River senior Jason Chance.

The season's opener, "Picnic", was invited to travel to Boston for a festival there. The talent and dedication of the performers proved themselves again and again throughout the season. You had to be there to witness the breathtaking productions.

These mystical shows didn't appear by magic. It took many weeks of rehearsals, construction, sewing, and collaboration on the part of the managers and crew-members. In the end, they managed to pull it off seamlessly, and like the master illusionists they are, they transport their audiences to new realms.

Stage 20

7th, 8th, and 9th grade students interested in any aspect of the theatre can find enjoyment in the program supervised by Mrs. Salmon and Ms. Smith. Stage 20 helps inspire young performers and technicians as they explore the performing arts. These drama enthusiasts stage several extravaganzas during the course of a year. The regularly held workshops are full of laughs and good times.

Mrs. Salmon and Ms. Smith devote a great deal of time and effort to these young players. You had to be there to witness and experience the talent that is nurtured by Stage 20.

Student Council

Elected by their peers, Student Council offers a chance for students to hone their political skills. Each year elections occur and new or incumbent students take their place in student government. This learning experience encourages students to become involved in school and community activities. This year's advisor is Mr. Richard Probst and the council sponsored several dances for the school.

If someone were to intrude upon the yearbook staff during grueling hourly meetings the quotes heard could range from "Does anybody have anything important to say", "What a hottie!" or "We need help". The term "dazed and confused" more than applies here. All the deadlines, confusion, and stress headaches pay off in the finished product.

The environment for the work done is comical, friendly, and zany. The laughs, the insults, and the pencils are always flying. You had to be there on the yearbook staff to experience the nonstop action.

The twenty-four seniors who make up this year's NHS were recommended and nominated by teachers based on character, personality and academic success. This very active group, advised by Mrs. Foley and Mme. Sullivan, spend the majority of their time on community service. The NHS's most important and probably best known activity is the assembly and distribution of Christmas food baskets to approximately sixty families in the Mill River district. These baskets boost the spirit of those families in need of a little extra support during the holiday season.

Other NHS projects consist of apple picking and pie baking, bottle drives, gingerbread house making and Valentine's Day carnations. Being in the National Honor Society is an honor that allows seniors to experience school spirit and the satisfaction of knowing that they were able to make a difference.

MATH COUNTS

Math Counts is a nation wide organization designed to promote interest in mathematics and recognize students' achievements. The Mill River 7th and 8th grade team met weekly with Mr. Barker and former Math Count member Joshua Estelle to prepare for the chapter competition held at Castleton State College in February. At each meeting these "mathletes" worked on challenging problems and formulated the problem solving strategies that would lead to success. The following were Math Counts for '94-'95: Sean Flood, Frances Harski, Jody Haynes, Emily Jacob, Lauren McCoy, Odin Olsen, and Jesse Pino.

GMTI

As participants in this leadership training program, the students are expected to return to their schools and communities to implement prevention activities with their peers.

MR Band

Upon entering the band room you're overwhelmed by the carefully performed songs played out by the finely tuned instruments. These students chose to sharpen their musical skills by joining this organization. Under Mr. Irwin's watchful eyes and keen musical sense, each individual instrument and its unique sound is blended into a cascade of harmony.

Band members also have the opportunity to march in the Halloween Parade hosted by the city of Rutland, in which Mill River band students were awarded the "best costume" citation for their Phantom of the Opera theme.

Becoming a member of the various sections of the band, such as Jazz, Senior, Junior, and Seventh grade band, offers unique musical opportunities and challenges. Mill River's bands takes musically inclined students to the next level of ability.

MR Chorus

Need a little diversion? Want to hear some great music? Then give a listen to the voices of Mill River's many choruses. Chorus members can choose from a number of groups, each with their own vocal specialty, such as the chamber chorus, junior chorus and the senior chorus. This year, Valentine's Day provided the perfect opportunity for these talented vocalists to serenade designated sweethearts in and outside of school. Recipients of this special treat were often surprised, but never disappointed.

S C I E N C E

Each year near the end of February, Mill River holds its Science Fair. Students work for weeks getting their projects ready for presentation. It all comes together on the night of the fair, when the judges award prizes and certificates to the best projects. And even those who do not get an award come out ahead. You see, at Mill River's science fair everyone is a winner!

VARSITY GIRLS' SOCCER

Blood, Sweat, And Tears

This year's Varsity Girls' Soccer team consisted of 20 dedicated, talented girls who devoted their fall season to grueling soccer matches. The many hours of practice and determination paid off as the girls gained the quarter finals, despite the fact that the team was plagued throughout the year with many injuries. In fact so many injuries occurred that several Junior Varsity players had to be promoted to the Varsity.

The coaches did their very best in keeping the team on the winning track. You had to be there to see the team overcome the hardships and come out victors.

VARSITY BOYS' SOCCER

A sure sign that autumn is here again is the sight of the Mill River Boys' Varsity Soccer team training for the upcoming season. This year's team was filled with veteran players. Though getting in shape was hard work, it was the kind of hard work that leads to a winning season.

CROSS COUNTRY

All year long the Mill River Cross Country Team showed dedication and perseverance. Running cross country takes more than speed. The athlete also needs stamina and courage. But the pain, the sweat, and the hard work proved to be worth it at the finish line.

You had to be there to witness the endurance and the victories. The courses and the trails were tough, but the Minutemen were tougher. It's no longer the miles they have already run, but the miles they have yet to run.

Varsity Cheerleading

A cheerleader is defined as someone who directs the cheering of spectators. But ask any cheerleader and she'll tell you there is more to it than that.

Routines are practiced regularly, and muscles are given strenuous workouts, all in the pursuit of school spirit and a winning team. Cheering, vaulting, and smiling are needed to psych up the crowd. Our cheerleaders placed 4th in the state after overcoming great obstacles during the season. Not one girl on the team could say she is not proud to be a MRUHS cheerleader. Congratulations.

Varsity Girls' Basketball

Although this year's team did not win a championship, next year may be a red letter year for girls' basketball. This year's team worked long and hard to become a cohesive unit. And what began as a group of individual girls soon became a team. The quick and agile moves they executed showed they were one in mind and one in motion. The friendships that developed off the court became obvious on the court. Their competitive spirit testifies to the many hours they spent in practice. We thank the girls who played this year for their devotion to the Mill River Girl's Basketball Team.

Throughout the 22 game season the Boys' Varsity Basketball team improved vastly in teamwork and comradeship. With sophomores, juniors, and a senior, next year will certainly be a winner. This year's team made it to the playoffs with a record of 7 - 15. In the post season play they beat the home team 61 - 50. From beginning to end the games were close and competitive. The team has great expectations for next year's season. "We're going to rock next year", says Jake Grace.

After competing against fifteen schools and taking part in five tournaments, this year's wrestling team earned the right to participate in the state championships, and ultimately sent two wrestlers to the New England championships. Wrestling practices are hard, with sprints, stair climbing, and an hour of warm-ups. But the hard work and discipline often result in a well deserved victory. Unwavering dedication does not stop at the practice room door. Wrestlers must watch their weight to stay in their weight class. "This has been one of our better seasons. I'm really proud of our team," says Kevin Keeler who participated in the New Englands. The captains this year were Bruce D'Aloia and David Whitmer. The future of the program is very promising.

Birdie, eagle, bogey, hook, slice. Just what are they talking about? Why it's the MRUHS golf team! Golf is as much mental as physical. After a hook or a slice, getting ready for the next shot is as hard as it gets. And how do you keep the ball in the fairway anyway? This year's team spent many long hours in supervised practice. And who knows? There may be a PGA champion to come out of Mill River some day.

The true fans of MRU portray the pride and spirit of our school. When the competition is fierce, the parents and friends of the athletes raise their voices in support. And each team has its loyal fans.

When the weather turns bad, blankets and umbrellas supplied much needed shelter. Being a spectator is almost a sport of its own. The uncertainty of each game's outcome always keeps the fans' attention. You had to be there to feel the anticipation and the excitement.

Best Wishes To The Class Of 1995

We now bid a final goodbye. You had to be there to witness the sights and sounds. You had to see successes. You there to be there the successes. You had to be failures. You had to be dream the dreams of the future. We will leave here, perhaps never to return. But we must never forget the good times and great memories we shared.
